

Early Modern Global History Seminar

The Dutch Atlantic in the Seventeenth Century Workshop

Date: January 13, 2016

Location: Georgetown University, ICC 450

Session 1

- 13.00-13.40: “A Variety of Opinions: Dutch Trading Companies and Mixed Marriage”
Deborah Hamer, postdoctoral fellow, Omohundro Institute of Early American History & Culture
- 13.45-14.25: “Indian Servants, Slaves, and Wives during the English evacuation of Dutch Suriname: 1668-1680”
Carolyn Arena, PhD Candidate, Columbia University
- 14.25-14.40: Coffee Break

Session 2

- 14.40-15.20: “Anglo-Dutch Encounters: Exploring Contacts between English and Dutch Colonists in Suriname and New Netherland/New York”
Suze Zijlstra, postdoctoral fellow, Georgetown University
- 15.25-16.05: “Permeability of power: The duality of structure and colonial lobbying in the Dutch Atlantic”
Joris van den Tol, PhD Candidate, Leiden University

Workshop expert commentator: Professor Tamar Herzog

Workshop chair: Professor Alison Games

Public lecture

- 16.30: “Did European Law Turn American? Territory, Property and Rights in an Atlantic World.”
Professor Tamar Herzog, Harvard University

The lecture is followed by a social hour.

Registration:

Please register via Suze Zijlstra at sz394@georgetown.edu and indicate which workshop session(s) you will attend, and/or if you will attend Professor Herzog’s lecture.

Participants of the workshop are expected to read the papers that will be circulated in advance.

Early Modern Global History Seminar

Public Lecture Tamar Herzog

(Harvard University)

'Did European Law turn American?
Territory, Property, and Rights in an Atlantic World'

Location: Georgetown University ICC 450

Date: 13 January 2016

Time: 16:30

Please register via Suze Zijlstra at sz394@georgetown.edu

NIELS
STENSEN
FELLOWSHIP

New Netherland Institute
Exploring America's Dutch Heritage

Georgetown
INSTITUTE FOR GLOBAL HISTORY